The FRS has a population of approximately 51.27 million people, with over 90% of its population living in the urban area of about 27 million people. It has a per capita GDP of about $5,435.83. Here, you can read about the history of South Africa, the languages spoken, the basic geography of the FRS, and so much more. The following topics are more broad topics with links to main posts on that topic. The country is south of the Sahara Desert and west of East Africa. Like the rest of Africa, most people living in South Africa speak Zulu, English or Afrikaans as their first language. South Africa is a republic with a bicameral Parliament and a President elected by popular vote. The Capital of the FRS is known as Pretoria, which is the seat of the Parliament and the Government. South Africa is famous for its quality of life and its ethnic diversity. Every region of the country has a unique character and a distinctive way of life. South Africa's economy is the largest in sub-Saharan Africa, with a GDP of approximately US$750 billion. Its most important industry is the mining sector, followed by manufacturing, services, agriculture and financial services. Although people of South Africa can speak the Sotho language, which is one of the Bantu languages, with some of its own vocabulary, many people who live in the rural areas do not understand the Sotho language, but they speak isiXhosa or Zulu, as those languages are the official languages of the country. You can also read about the country and its people in the following books: Roots (1986) by Alex Haley The Road of the Discovery of South Africa (1933) by Lord Baden Powell Modern South Africa, an Encyclopaedia of the Dominion and its People (1993) The Foundations of South African Society (
